

Lewa Wilderness Lodge is situated within one of Kenya's major private conservation successes the Lewa Wildlife Conservancy at the foot of Mt Kenya. Lewa Downs has been the Craig family home since 1924, when the Craigs came from England and began raising cattle here. Lewa Wilderness lodge is the original family home of the Craigs and is still home to Will and Emma Craig, who host with their team of professional guides.

Lewa Downs Conservancy has three extraordinary assets:

Beautiful countryside with exceptional wildlife viewing

A major commitment to community development and participation

The endangered species – Rhino, both Black and White, Grevy's Zebra, and Sitatunga

"Leave room for the wildlife" has been the Craig ethic since the 1920's. Lewa Downs Wildlife Conservancy is committed to the conservation of wildlife and the diverse habitats found on the northern slopes of Mount Kenya. A private ranch, a private house, a private paradise - this is Lewa Wilderness Lodge.
